

Request a Default Decision and Order – Societies and Cooperatives

When to use this form

You can only request a default decision if the CRT tells you that the respondent(s) didn't respond to the dispute.

You can only claim what's in the Dispute Notice. The CRT only grants orders if it has jurisdiction over the claim and the remedies you want.

How to submit this form and any fees

- ✓ Fields marked * are required. If your form is missing information, it will take longer to process. Don't enter information in the shaded areas of the form marked "For CRT Use Only".
- ✓ There is a $25 fee for this request if submitting by email, or $30 if submitting by mail or fax. If you haven't paid this fee yet, we'll contact you when we receive this form.
- ✓ For a default decision, you don't have to give evidence that the other party is at fault. But you might need to give evidence to prove the value of your claims. See the next page for details. Attach any evidence as separate pages.
- ✓ Send this form and your evidence (if required) to the CRT by email, mail, or fax:

Declarations

* CRT Dispute Number (for example, CS-2020-01234):

* I confirm that (select one):

- The CRT advised me that it served all the respondents with the Dispute Notice for this dispute. The CRT also advised me that no respondent has submitted a Dispute Response.
- The CRT advised me that it served some of the respondents, but directed me to serve the other respondents. I confirm that I have served the Dispute Notice on all respondents that the CRT directed me to serve. The CRT also advised me that no respondent has submitted a Dispute Response.
- The CRT directed me to serve all the respondents. I confirm I have served the Dispute Notice on all respondents. The CRT also advised me that no respondent has submitted a Dispute Response.

* I also confirm that (must select all):

- The claim amounts in this form are the same or lower than the amounts listed in the Dispute Notice. I understand the CRT won't award more than what I claimed in the Dispute Notice.
- If I am requesting reimbursement of CRT fees and dispute-related expenses, I am only claiming fees and expenses related to bringing the claims to the CRT. I understand the CRT won't award more than what I claimed. I understand that the CRT generally won't order reimbursement of lawyer fees or my time spent dealing with this dispute.
- I understand that, under section 92 of the Civil Resolution Tribunal Act, a person who provides false or misleading evidence or other information in a tribunal proceeding commits an offence and is liable on conviction to a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for a term not longer than 6 months, or both.

Types of Claims and What to Include

Monetary Claims

A monetary claim is for a specific amount of money owed under the Societies Act, a society's bylaws, the Cooperative Association Act, or a cooperative association's rules. For example, a refund of membership fees or reimbursable expenses.

You can enter a lower amount than you claimed in the Dispute Notice. For example, if you originally claimed $500 and the respondent paid you $100 after the Dispute Notice was issued, you would enter $400 in this form.

Include with this form:

- Receipts for all dispute-related expenses, if you're claiming more than $50 total for fees and expenses. (Receipts for CRT fees aren't required.)
- Copies of any expert reports you're claiming reimbursement for.
- Evidence of the claim value. For example, a receipt showing the amount paid for membership fees or expenses.

Don't include with this form:

- Receipts for CRT fees.
- New claims.
- Evidence that the other party is at fault. For example, evidence that they refused to refund your membership fees or expenses.
- Interest that wasn't included in the Dispute Notice.

Non-Monetary Claims

A non-monetary claim is when you simply want the other party to do or stop doing something. This is called "injunctive relief". For example, you want the society to give you access to records.

The CRT usually won't order a respondent to do something if an order to pay money would be sufficient. If you want an order for injunctive relief instead of money, clearly explain why in Part B of this form.

Include with this form:

- Receipts for all dispute-related expenses, if you're claiming more than $50 total for fees and expenses. (Receipts for CRT fees aren't required.)
- Copies of any expert reports you're claiming reimbursement for.

Don't include with this form:

- Receipts for CRT fees.
- New claims.
- Evidence that the other party is at fault. For example, evidence that the society refused to give you access to records.

Part C: Dispute-Related Fees and Expenses

You can claim CRT filing fees and reasonable dispute-related expenses you paid to prepare for the CRT process. Generally, the CRT won't order reimbursement of fees paid to a lawyer or other representative or for your time spent dealing with the dispute.

If you're claiming more than $50, include receipts. But you don't need to include receipts for CRT fees.

Description	Expense Amount ($)	(CRT use only) Order Amount ($)
